HARDING SEEMS CERTAIN OF RECOVERY; CONDITION SHOWS STEADY IMPROVEMENT

Johnson's Friends Charge Hoover Played A Mean Political Trick

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—(By United Press.)—Senator Hiram Johnson's friends were furiously indignant today over what they declared was a deliberate political trick played on Johnson and on them by members of President Harding's official party.
Publication in this morning's newspapers of the foreign relations speech that Johnson made last night had been well, was the cause of the trouble which may grow into major political interest.
Secretary of Commerce Hoover was the principal target. The Johnson adherents blame Hoover for getting the speech released for publication as a means of playing on public sympathy for the stricken President, to turn California against Johnson and the public issue.
If Hoover was not responsible then some pro-Hoover and anti-Johnson member of the party is to blame, the Johnson members claim.
The thought that the speech was released at the direct suggestion of President Harding himself does not mitigate or alter the case, Johnson's friends declare.
They say President Harding is too ill to understand the situation and the consequences of his action when he decided the controversy among members of his official family about the propriety of releasing the speech as a statement to the press.
The President, Johnson's friends say, was imposed upon.
The controversy grew out of the fact that some of Mr. Harding's advisers foresaw exactly the situation that has arisen.
They had read the speech.
They knew it would evoke criticism from all those who do not agree with him in American participation in the World Court.
That criticism would have been expressed with the utmost freedom had Mr. Harding been well, but no one with good taste can engage in a controversy with a man who is barely out of the shadow of death.
Some of the President's advisers understanding the Hoover-Johnson antagonisms in California and desiring to avoid any thing like the repetition of the Hughes-Johnson mixup, argued that the speech should be given up, but the other view that the public was entitled to the President's report on foreign relations, prevailed with him.
Because of the President's illness, comment on his statement will be somewhat restrained. The document prepared with great care was in brief an argument in favor of American adhesion to the World Court.

TWO FACE TRIAL FOR KILLING MINISTER

Larkin C. Garrett and Robert O. Garrett.

Larkin C. Garrett and Robert O. Garrett have begun a desperate fight in Cumberland Court House, Va., for a change of venue in their trial on the charge of murdering Rev. E. S. Pierce, a Baptist minister. The alleged legal talent in the State has been retained by both sides, and the case has attracted national attention. The dismissal of a pretty school teacher on an alleged scandal charge, together with Rev. Pierce's defense of her, led to the killing.

Good Sleeping Aids In Gaining Strength

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—(By Associated Press.)—An official statement issued at 10:10 a. m. today by the five doctors attending President Harding, said Mr. Harding still was "much exhausted but maintains his normal buoyancy of spirit."
At that hour the chief executive, according to the bulletin, was breathing with less labor than previously and there was little cough.
The statement follows:
"The President is fairly comfortable this morning after a few hours sleep. His breathing is less labored and there is but little cough. The lung condition is about the same as yesterday. He is still much exhausted but maintains his normal buoyancy of spirit. Small amounts of food are being taken regularly and there is regular and satisfactory elimination. The temperature is 99 degrees, pulse 114, respiration 30. While progress is being made, every care is necessary to assure freedom from further complications."

Decreases In Temperature And Pulse
PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF., August 1.—(By the A. P.)—An informal statement issued at 8 a. m. today by Brigadier General Chas. E. Sawyer, the President's personal physician, said Mr. Harding had spent a very restful night and his pulse at that hour was 114, temperature 99, and respiration 30.
These figures represented decreases in the pulse rate and temperature as compared with the last previous bulletin, the pulse rate being less by two, and the temperature one and two-tenths degrees lower. The respiration rate given in each bulletin was the same.

HARDING ENJOYS A LONG SLEEP

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—(By Associated Press.)—President Harding awoke shortly after six o'clock having had almost a normal amount of sleep. His rest, which was described as the most nearly normal of any during his illness, began before 11 o'clock last night.

Harding Seems Certain Of Recovery

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—(By the A. P.)—President Harding today seemed certain of recovery, barring improbable development of new complications in his illness or the equally improbable increase of the present ones.
Brigadier General Chas. E. Sawyer, chief of the staff of physicians on the President's case, still was standing by his statement of last night that the crisis had been passed and that "the situation is well on the road to recovery." Added to this was the declaration from an authoritative source that the only reason for concern was because the patient was president of the United States and not because of any symptoms or likelihood of any.
"Since we have our toxin well under control, I feel safe in saying that we have passed the peak load of trouble," was the way General Sawyer summarized the situation in an informal statement. "I don't want to be too emphatic about it, because we always face complications. But I feel that the crisis is over, and that the President is well on the road to recovery."
This feeling was manifestly shared by all of the other physicians and by members of the President's immediate party. Mrs. Harding, who has been by the side of her husband throughout this fight, as she has been in all struggles he has waged, was understood to be even more optimistic, and the President himself, was convinced that the battle had been won for he was quoted by Secretary Work as having said last yesterday:
"President Thinks He's Out Of The Woods"
"Work, I think we're almost out of the woods."
The President's own feelings were expressed at a time when his condition was not so satisfactory as it became as the evening came on, and in that mood he was said to be extremely cheerful when he went to bed last night. He was said to be extremely cheerful when he awoke about 9 o'clock last night from what Dr. Sawyer described as the best and most natural sleep he has had since his illness began. He was awake only a short time and then dropped back into a sleep that was described as quite different from and exceedingly more satisfactory than the nervous sleep of Monday night when all the physicians were agreed that his condition was grave.
From time to time last night word came from the presidential suite that Mr. Harding was asleep and each time those who remained on watch became more and more optimistic. Sleep and rest, to repair the breaches, became more and more optimistic. Sleep and rest, to repair the breaches, became more and more optimistic. Sleep and rest, to repair the breaches, became more and more optimistic.

Steady Increase In Nourishment

A steady increase in the amount of nourishment being taken by the President was another cause for optimism. His diet, as prescribed yesterday, was as follows:

Britain To Seek Separate Settlement With Germans

LONDON, August 1.—(By Associated Press.)—The recent expectation that Prime Minister Baldwin's statement in a house of commons on Thursday with respect to the negotiations with allies would hardly be very informative has now yielded to a belief that the premier will explain the situation thoroughly, withdrawing the veil of diplomatic secrecy which hitherto has kept everyone guessing.
The government is credited with the hope that it will be possible to publish before Thursday the whole correspondence between Britain and her allies since June, but the documents are so numerous and so lengthy that it is now feared the time will not suffice for their arrangement, printing and circulation in parliament.
If this cannot be done Mr. Baldwin, according to political writers, will take parliament and the public into his confidence and will give a verbal outline of what the printed correspondence would disclose. This reported decision is taken to indicate that the government is confident nothing can be gained by further negotiations and that it must now take a fresh course.
What course is to be, it is said will be considered at two or three cabinet meetings today and tomorrow. The present supposition is that the government will decide to seek an immediate separate settlement with Germany.
Opinions differ as to whether Italy would associate herself with Great Britain in such a move or whether she would act independently. The prevalent view here is that the Italian attitude in the main is identical with the British.

Held For "Divers" Reasons

DETROIT, MICH., August 1.—Russell Hunt, of Sandwich, Ont., today is under arrest for divers reasons.
"Captain" John Spear, the diver, was forty feet under water at the Ojibway, Ont., docks yesterday and Hunt, his helper, was on the dock. One end of a rope was around Spear's waist, the other was in the hands of Hunt whose job it was to heave vigorously when the captain signaled that he wanted to come out of the water.
The captain signaled and Hunt heaved, Spear climbing a ladder with the assistance of the strong pull at his waist.
Half way to the surface the rope slackened. Captain Spear, who is well along in years, all but fell back to the bottom. Fighting the pressure of the water and hampered by his heavy diving suit, he fought his way to the surface and reached the dock exhausted.
In making complaint to the Canadian authorities, Captain Spear said Hunt became engrossed in conversation with a passerby and forgot all about his chief under the water.
The warrant charges criminal negligence.

Ex-Prince Visits Wilhelm

Replying to a question regarding what was the meaning of the coming to Doorn of numerous German visitors, Frederick William said it was holiday time and consequently visits were to be exchanged.

NEW YORK, August 1.—From the standpoint of the manufacturer, this country should be well satisfied with its present business situation according to Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation.
There is nothing to indicate an interruption to progress and prosperity in the immediate future, Mr. Gary said yesterday after announcing that in the three months ended June 30, the company's operating profits were $28,851,000, more than $2,000,000 in excess of official estimates.
"Of course," he said, "I would not make any statement that would have a tendency to hurt business of any kind and I would not intentionally."

Attempting To Swim Across Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, O., August 1.—(By Associated Press.)—Somewhere between Pelee, Ont., and Lorain, Ohio, Carbis Walker, Cleveland swimmer and former member of the Outrigger Canoe Club of Honolulu, early today was attempting to swim across Lake Erie—32 miles—a feat never before accomplished.

Trained to the minute and confident of success, Walker dove into the water off Point Pelee Lightship at 7 o'clock last night, according to advices received here from Leamington, Ont., the nearest point of communication.
Walker is accompanied by the powerboat Argus and a canoe and expects to complete his marathon aquatic feat within twenty eight or thirty hours. Neither craft is equipped with wireless and it is doubtful whether any word at all although four newspapersmen are abroad the Argus, and a tugboat crew, believing this stroke gives the most distance for the least effort.
Weather conditions never were more favorable, he told his friends before starting.
"I'm in fine trim and will make it if conditions remain favorable," Walker said as he jumped into the lake. He has trained for several months, having planned to make the attempt in June, but delayed it because of the low temperature of the water.
Walker spent yesterday in resting. His breakfast consisted of a piece of toast and part of an orange. Later in the day he drank a glass of milk and ate a slice of bread, buttered and sugared. Before starting he drank a cup of broth.
Food transports from unoccupied Germany are reported to be stalled at the zone frontiers, owing to disorganization of the French administered railway lines, which is preventing supplies from reaching their Ruhr destinations.

NEW YORK, August 1.—(By Associated Press.)—Immigration officials today were in the midst of the heaviest rush of aliens in the history of Ellis Island. Almost twelve thousand aliens crossed the imaginary line from Gravesend Bay into Quarantine within ten minutes after the stroke of midnight when the new quota opened.
Commissioner Curran stated that he would rush them through the island as fast as possible but that he did not expect to handle more than 2,000 a day. Several quotas will be filled within a few hours.
Thousands must remain abroad their ships for at least a week.
During the day a total of twenty thousand is expected to arrive at the island. Of these, thousands, will arrive after their countries' quotas have been filled.

Fascismo Foe To Communism In U. S.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1933)
(Special Cable To The Portsmouth Times)
ROME, Aug. 1.—Premier Mussolini today discussed with extraordinary frankness the question of whether the Fascist organizations in America should be encouraged or discouraged.

An exclusive interview with this correspondent, the Italian premier said emphatically that rather than incur the opposition of public opinion in America he would use his influence to have abolished those Fascist organizations which have sprung up among Italian residents in the United States. But he was not sure it would be a good thing to do so, for he thinks some virile force should be at work constantly among Italian emigrants to prevent their falling victims to the doctrines of communists. The latter, he believes, have aggressive missionaries in America.

It was intimated by officers that similar action will be taken by other chapters but no specific information was available.

Raises Row While Baby Lies Dead

The birth of twins, the death of one of the babies, and the nervous conditions of the mother did not prevent Eliza Zimmerman, formerly of 1523 Summit St., and now of whose address is unknown, from raising a general disturbance in the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Underwood, yesterday evening, according to Mrs. Underwood.

Zimmerman and his wife have been living with the Underwoods since spring, occupying an upstairs room in the home. Often he would come home intoxicated, the neighbors allege.

Underwood seriously objected to his coming in that condition before the five children in the household, the oldest of whom is fourteen. On yesterday evening when his wife was in so nervous condition Underwood started to talk to Zimmerman and blame him for his disrespect of the sister and the dead baby. Zimmerman protested his sobriety and offered Underwood a drink.

When Underwood refused, the brother-in-law threatened him, and struck him over the left eye. Mrs. Underwood, hearing the quarrel in the kitchen, got up from her bed, and called the police. At their arrival, however, the disturbance had made his way to the hills.

About 9:30 p. m., Zimmerman was located and taken to the police station. Underwood was called, but as he would not prefer charges against his wife's brother, Zimmerman was dismissed on condition that he keep away from the Underwood home.

Mrs. Underwood was considerably unnerved by the incident but is getting along nicely now that the brother has left.

Brothers-In-Law Engage In A Bloody Fight; Two Women Relatives Faint

Nip Clifford and Harry Nichols were the names given by two men taken to the police station this morning for fighting. They engaged in a bloody combat at the Clifford home on Tenth street near Washington, following an argument over a wagon. During the battle two sisters of Clifford, Mrs. Nicholas and Lena Clifford fainted and required the care of a physician. Lena was unconscious for nearly 20 minutes. The affair created a big commotion in the neighborhood.

Nicholas, who married the older sister of Clifford, says he was sent out to a place on Twelfth street where he was working. He went to the place designated and because no one showed up he returned to the house and went to bed.

When Clifford came home he was angry because the team had been put in the barn and when Nichols' wife tried to explain he struck her a number of times with a black snake whip, it was claimed.

Nichols, hearing his wife scream came to her aid and Clifford hit him with a pair of "hunks" and badly cutting his face. Officers Pryles, Hawkins and Schaffer arrested the pair and they were released on $50 bond.

Nichols received four deep cuts on his face, each requiring a clamp, one on his forehead above the right eye, one just under the right eye and two on his upper lip. Dr. Hunt was called to the police station to dress the wounds.

Kiwanians Plan For Ball Game With Exchangeites; Enjoy Fine Meeting

Plans were completed at Wednesday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club for the joint meeting with the Exchange Club to be held at Rosemount Road on Thursday afternoon, August 9th, when these two organizations will clash in a baseball game.

Kiwanians made sport of the Exchange team in the ration of 12 to 3, but the latter team has been greatly strengthened and the Exchange boys are preparing to jollify at the close of the game. It may be their place will go away, which event they will turn over their fox horns and red fire to the Kiwanian jollification committee. Anyhow, and anyway, the people living in the vicinity of Rosemount Road are going to hear some noise and see some fire and smoke. If there is no objection on the part of the Exchangeites, Ben F. Dillon will be the chief umpire.

At Wednesday's meeting, the program committee, of which Clara Reiley is chairman, pulled off a memory contest that was a success. It was so good it will be repeated at a later date. The seating arrangements were according to poundage. Those over 200 pounds sat at the heavy-weight table; those between 175 and 200 sat at medium, and so on down to the 125 pound class. J. N. Sullivan, secretary of a Kiwanian club in Illinois, was present, as was Mr. Ivan Sommer of Los Angeles, Cal. Both gentlemen made short, but snappy addresses. M. A. Coe and H. Glenn Davis were named as delegates to attend the Kiwanian district 9, on August 20, 21 and 22.

The Kiwanians accepted the invitation of the Girl Scouts to meet at their new camp on Thursday afternoon, August 16.

Dead, But His Nerve Is Proved

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Aug. 1.—Dead men tell no tales, but bullet holes do. In the case of Jessie Nance they indicate that he was a "game guy."

Nance, 30 years old, a brick-mason, of 2469 Collins avenue, died yesterday in the Huntington General hospital from gunshot wounds suffered Sunday night during a raid on a moonshine still located in the hills two miles south of Harveysburg, in Wayne county.

Two bullets pierced Nance, one high in the right breast and the second in the abdomen. Both shots had been fired by a shotgun, the weapon, endeavoring to tell the story of Chas. H. Williams and Frank Poe, state prohibition enforcement agents, that he went down fighting.

A third bullet struck Nance's double-barreled shotgun, the depression on the stock indicating that the weapon was leveled from the shoulder at the time.

Names of companions. The raid in which Nance was wounded fatally occurred at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night. Dying, Nance confessed that he had been standing watch for the hand of moonshiners. He named two of his companions, but denied that there were more at the still, although the dry law agents aver they observed five men at work.

Each member of the club will govern himself accordingly and if he does not wish to use his fingers, he must come provided with the necessary utensils, not only for himself but for his family.

Dr. Lowry And Stovall Ousted Temporarily From Management Of The Marting Hotel

IRONTON, O., August 1.—At a meeting of the Ironton Hotel Company, J. N. Hudson, formerly auditor of the hotel under Manager C. H. McClung, was placed in charge of the hotel and an inventory of the entire property and its furnishings was begun as ordered in the temporary injunction granted the hotel directors Monday by Judge Layne, Common Pleas court.

Precious to this Dr. Joseph W. Lowry and C. Albert Stovall, who have been in control of the Marting Hotel for several months on the strength of a contract which they allege they have with J. Arch Stern, to whom the directors leased the hotel and against whom Stovall had secured a temporary injunction prohibiting him from surrendering the lease, were both ousted from all management whatever with the affairs of the hotel by a temporary injunction granted the hotel directors by Judge Layne in Common Pleas court.

The decision of the court came at the conclusion of the hearing on the application of the hotel directors for a mandatory injunction to prevent Lowry and Stern having anything to do with the operation of the hotel, one of several actions which have grown out of the original suit of C. Albert Stovall vs. J. Arch Stern et al. after the court had heard the arguments of counsel for all parties to the controversy.

After hearing the arguments of counsel in the case, which at times grew rather heated, the court held that J. Arch Stern, by his pleadings in open court, be removed, had surrendered the lease which he obtained from the hotel directors on March 14, 1923, and that the hotel company was entitled to immediate possession of said property and ever part thereof, during the pendency of the action and upon final hearing thereon.

Lowry and Stovall, it seems, were only connected with the hotel at all through an alleged contract with Stern and the court having found that Stern had surrendered his lease, the only instrument which gave him any authority over the property, it was held that Lowry and Stovall's connection with the hotel was automatically ended.

Under the terms of the temporary injunction secured yesterday by the hotel directors, J. Arch Stern and C. Albert Stovall are ordered and directed to deliver over to the hotel company the property and all its belongings and the hotel company was required to furnish bond in the sum of $20,000 for the safety of the property. Both Stovall and Lowry and their agents are enjoined from in any wise interfering with the hotel company in the possession of the hotel. Stovall and Lowry, through their counsel, immediately filed a motion to dissolve the temporary injunction granted but the motion was at once overruled by the court. The injunction, it is understood, will remain in effect until the whole controversy is heard on its merits and finally disposed of.

The hotel directors were represented by Attorneys Johnson and Jones, Mr. Stern by Attorneys Andrews and Irish, and Stovall and Lowry by Attorneys E. E. Corn, F. G. Roberts and Edwards and Riley.

C. Of C. Manager Urges The Support Of County Fair

Members of the Chamber of Commerce should not overlook the agricultural activities which are now in progress of arranging for the BIGGEST AND BEST COUNTY FAIR in the state on the dates of August 8, 9, 10, and 11, which are the following week and the place at the following grounds just north of Lancaster. That there should be an interest shown in agricultural affairs by those not directly engaged in that result is well established and that this operation should be apparent no better evidence can be given these worthy people of the farm than by attending their activities and more fully understand their problems.

Conditions on the farm have been most discouraging of late and this subject of maintaining on the farm those including the children already there has engaged federal attention and therefore becomes of interest to both the city and rural sections.

By uniting with rural activities we will have a clearer conception of farm difficulties and more readily confer a true best method of granting relief before there comes a condition that will effect very adversely these to the city.

The Chamber of Commerce extends the hope that there will be an attendance at this annual fair unmeasured by the attendance of the past.

The Chamber of Commerce, Per Adam Frick, Manager.

Checking Up Fairs

Jones, Upper Sandusky, inspectors for the state agricultural department, were in the city Wednesday enroute from Piketon to Ripley, where they will be engaged during the week in checking up the concessions at the Ripley Fair and issuing licenses to those not already supplied.

The inspectors visited the Piketon fair yesterday and they will be at the big show at Lucasville next week. Mr. Bonner is a former United States deputy marshal in this district.

West End Men Favor "Point" Improvement

The West End Improvement Association, at a well attended meeting last night, in the Massie building, Second and Market streets, went on record as favoring an improvement in the "point" as suggested by the Chamber of Commerce.

A vote was taken and the Association agreed to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in a movement to secure an improvement at the intersection of Second and Scioto streets, after the following communication from Adam Frick had been read:

July 31st, '23.
Mr. Wm. Sheets, President
The West End Improvement Association.

Portsmouth, Ohio.
My Dear Mr. Sheets:—
Should the Chamber of Commerce not offer its services to officials in charge of municipal affairs and other localized associations, it would be of less value to the community in solving problems that are a bit tedious, so the Chamber merely wishes to help along.

We have in mind the condition at Second and Scioto streets where was the foundation for the Scioto bridge. Merely wanting to suggest that these two streets be brought together and tion of premier of the Italian government and actual head of the Fascist political party, which has a grand council somewhat like the Republican or Democratic National Committees in the United States. It consists of about 25 members, including the cabinet members.

"The Fascist grand council," said Mussolini to the writer, "has just been meeting to consider whether a Fascist organization in America should be continued. The Italian government believes that if any political taint or suspicion is attached to these bodies they should be abolished. But I hope the American people will understand that there is no connection between these organizations and the Italian government, for in America the Italian government is represented only by her ambassador, Prince Ceanati. Indeed, the ambassador, who now is here, attended our meetings and made a speech in opposition to the continuance of the Fascist societies in the United States.

"The question is whether they can assume an entirely local status aiming only to combat the economic theories of communists who work among the Italians in America. This is as important to the welfare of America as it is to the rest of the world."

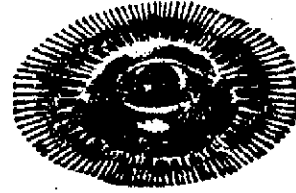

At this point the writer inquired whether the Fascist organizations would owe allegiance to any institution in Italy and the premier said positively that they had arisen in America without any connection with the Italian government and were intended purely as a manifestation of sympathy with the economic doctrines being practiced in Italy.

"I believe firmly," said the premier, "that the Italians in America should first of all be obedient to the laws of the United States and that they should be the best behaved citizens in America. I am pleased to note that many Americans are beginning to understand just what Fascism is and are expressing sympathy therewith."

"The most concrete expression of approval of Fascismo came recently from the American ambassador, Richard Washburn Child, and from Mussolini at the time comment which is significant and important in connection with the complimentary references to the Mussolini government by President Harding in his St. Louis speech. Replying to the American ambassador's fulsome praise of Fascism, Mussolini said: "As a Fascist, your excellency's words have a great meaning for me because they reveal an exact understanding of the phenomenon of our movement and thus constitute a sympathetic and powerful vindication of it. This fact is so much more remarkable because the Fascist movements are so complex that the mind of a stranger is not always best adapted to understand it. You, Mr. Ambassador, constitute the most brilliant exception to this rule. Your discourse, I dare say, contains all the philosophy of Fascismo and Fascist endeavor interwoven with the exaltation of strength, discipline and authority and hence responsibility. You have been able to show, Mr. Ambassador, that despite the numerous difficulties of the general situation Fascismo has kept faith with its promises. The time since those promises were made has been so short that only a stupid person would pretend that the work already is completed. I limit myself to saying and in this I seem to find corroboration by your excellency that it is well begun."

Mysterious Message Tells Of Local Mans Body Being Found

A message mailed to the Times from Ashland, Ky., on Wednesday morning, brought the information that a man whose initials were W. F. H. had been found dead on the river bank, Ohio side, Ashland, Ky., and asked that Mrs. Lilly Bussa, 1821 Jackson Street be notified that it was her brother.

A visit to the Bussa home disclosed the fact that she had not received any word of a brother being found dead but she said the initials were those of her brother Wesley Hlicks who is well known here and who was in the vicinity of Ashland the last time she heard from him.

The Times called the police, corner and newspaper office at Ashland and the Ironton police but they had not heard of anyone being found dead on the river bank during the last two days.

According to Mrs. Bussa her brother was at her home the latter part of last week and the latest word she had from him was on Monday when long distance from near Greenup and asked that someone from the Bussa home meet him on the Ohio side opposite Greenup in a machine as he wanted to come to Portsmouth. He was told that on account of the detour at Sciotoville, Mrs. Bussa went to Sciotoville and waited several hours Monday night but Hlicks never showed up.

Until last week Hlicks had been working on the Theodore Roosevelt Game Preserve on the West Side. He is about 43 years of age and single.

So Mussolini feels that since the American government, through its ambassador has spoken approvingly of Fascismo there ought to be henceforth the closest possible relations between the United States and Italy in combating the common foe—communism.

say anything that would make any one more hopeful of the future than the facts justify. I think I am justified in saying, however, that from the standpoint of the manufacturer, we should be very well satisfied with the present situation.

"Now as always, things may happen to cause a relaxation of business because capital is timid. People hesitate to act; they postpone purchases until they can see a little more clearly in the future. No man can say that progress in prosperity. On the other hand, as I see it, no one is justified in saying that such will occur in the immediate future."

Mr. Gary declared "this country has a wonderful position and a fine chance to carry on its affairs to the ultimate benefit and protection of the people and all our interests. If the business people of the country would study and fully realize the exact situation of our affairs. If they would take advantage of their opportunities and if they would maintain their courage."

"The dominion immigration authorities here when questioned as to the steps that would be taken in the matter, stated that the convicts would immediately be sent back to the states upon their arrival at the Canadian border."

"They state it is not permissible for men who are serving sentences for any crime in the United States to be allowed to set foot on a foreign country, even though they are in the company of a governor of a sovereign state as the Union."

"Dominion officials state that nothing will be done to stop the governor from traveling on Canadian soil but the two convict-servants will be detained unless some unusual official permission is granted by dominion authorities."

"The ban is absolute against persons convicted of crime, or who admit any crime involving moral turpitude," an official said.

TORONTO, ONT., August 1.—Ontario officials today were said to be considering steps to have two prisoners who are accompanying Governor Donahey of Ohio and Warden Thomas of the Ohio Penitentiary as servants on the hunting trip removed from the Province. The prisoners, who are trustees, are reported as a cook and chauffeur in the warden's household.

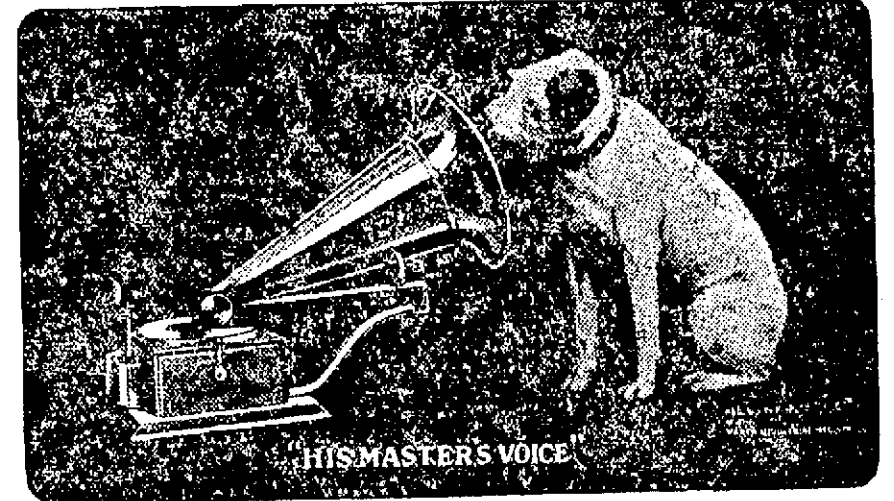

Frico To Keep Bunting

SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—(By the A. P.)—San Francisco, yesterday morning a bit apprehensive that she had dressed too gayly for what then occasioned, listened yesterday afternoon to news that her guest of honor was in better health and decided that the fripperies of flags and bunting, lights and color effects would not be out of place after all.

For Mr. Harding was better and those who had proposed elimination of at least the electric lights and fountain displays in the civic center because he was ill, were voted down. The flags will stay up in the streets and lights will continue to blaze forth and the color effects will continue to glow.

So said Mayor James Rolph, who averred that the display had been made in honor of President Harding and that it would continue as long as the executive remained in the city. The mayor added that he hoped the President would stay long enough and recover rapidly enough, to be able to drive through the city and enjoy the decorations.

Empress Zita Warned Not To Sell Diamond

ROME, August 1.—(By the A. The gem, which weighs 139 1/2 carats, was claimed from the Hapsburgs by Italy under the Versailles

LONDON, August 1.—The Italian embassy here today issued the following: "The Italian government warns the public against purchasing any jewelry belonging to ex-empress Zita as the Italian government has a prior claim thereon."

THE YELLOW SEVEN.

The Bronze Jar

BY EDMUND SNELL.
ILLUSTRATED BY R. M. S. F. F. F.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Monica Viney, beautiful widow, lives with her brother, Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Fessleton, British North Borneo. Peter Pennington is hired by the government to apprehend Chai-Hung, leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Lien-Yin, former agent of Chai-Hung, comes to Captain Hewitt with a great bronze jar which he declares contains the ashes of Chai-Hung. Hewitt doubts the report of Chai-Hung's death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

He placed the jar carefully on a corner of the desk.

"I'm sorry, Jack," she said wearily. "I didn't want to disturb you, but the sheer loneliness of the place is getting on my nerves. I just had to come in." She slipped into the chair he had pushed forward, and the kitten, feeling itself with an effort, began chasing a giant cockroach across the floor.

"You've got a touch of fever," suggested Hewitt sympathetically. "Better take a stiff dose of quinine—and turn in."

She smiled faintly.

"I don't think it's fever. It's this awful uncertainty. I'm worried about—Mr. Pennington. He's been on the island too long. The natives must be getting to know him. I haven't slept for nights. I've been picturing him wandering through the jungle on this wild-goose chase for that creature's tomb, with the followers of Chai-Hung on his track."

The Commissioner perched himself on the table.

"He'll come back all right," he declared, aware all the time of a certain uncomfortable business in his throat. "Pennington always does."

Her gaze traveled to the bronze jar.

"Is that the thing?" she demanded.

Hewitt nodded.

She left her chair and crept forward, half-fearfully, her hands outstretched in front of her. Presently she stood before the jar, looking wistfully down at it.

And to think—that everything depends on that—everything, at least, that matters!

The Commissioner jerked up his head and stared hard at the wall in front of him. He did not want to discover how Monica knew, but the very fact that she did know startled him. In the silence that followed, he caught the measured tread of the sentry on duty outside, the insistent hum of nocturnal insects, the patter of the absurd kitten across the floorboards. On a tray by the log-cabinet there reposed a decanter and glasses. He went over to it and poured out a stiff lot.

She took it unquestioningly making a wry face as the spirit burnt her throat.

"So, Pennington does matter?" he said quickly.

The warm blood mounted to her cheeks.

"Of course."

"I'm glad of that."

He was placing the glass back on the tray when he realized that his sister had followed him across the room.

"Must we keep that wretched jar here? Can't you just look in to make sure—and send it back to them again?"

He shook his head and laughed to dispel a certain uncomfortable inward feeling that Monica's present mood inspired.

"That's the devil of it," he told her. "I can't find out how it works."

She surveyed him for some moments, her head on one side.

"Why don't you send for a blacksmith—or somebody—and force it open?"

"I should scarcely like to do that. You see, it wouldn't be policy to provoke any further unpleasantness by deliberately committing sacrilege. Besides, it's an uncommonly fine jar."

He looked down at his watch. "We've got to bed. Lien-Yin's coming round in the morning—and then we shall know all about it."

She clucked at his sleeve.

"Jack, I can't sleep here with that thing in the house. I've been feeling perfectly horrible ever since they brought it here. You call it nerves, I know, but I've seen things at the window—"

"What sort of things?"

"I can't quite explain. Just vague, shadowy objects. That was what made me come to you. I could have sworn I heard them breathing and once—for a fraction of a second—two hands—like claws—reached on the sill. I should have gone mad if I had stayed."

In spite of himself, the Commissioner glanced at the wide open aperture through which the cool night air filtered. His keen gaze fell upon nothing but the rectangular patch of blackness she had expected to see. He walked deliberately to it and tossed the end of his cigar into the garden.

"There is nothing there, you see," he declared. "I tell you what it is, Monica. You're worrying too much about young Pennington, and you want a holiday. If you take my advice, you'll get married as soon as he comes back—and get him to take you for a long sea trip."

"Aren't you looking rather far ahead?" said Monica demurely. "You forget—he hasn't asked me yet."

The Commissioner tapped the bronze jar with his finger nail. "No, but he will as soon as I show him that. He was only waiting for proof that our enemy was dead."

She came slowly back towards the urn.

"Proof," she echoed in a voice so low that it was scarcely audible. "I wonder if this clumsy thing proves anything. For all we know—it may be empty."

"Which case," smiled her brother, "there's nothing on earth to prevent us going to bed!"

But Monica was not listening. She was passing her fingers over the metal surface.

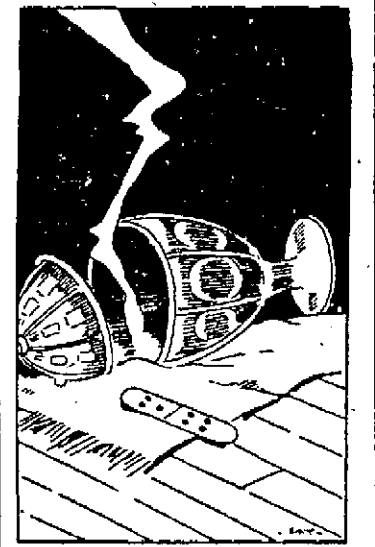

"I fancy that band has something to do with it—the band with the four little golden studs."

She held her thumb poised, over the nearest of the four gold knobs. It hovered for a second, a bare half inch from the metal, and then a form plunged wildly through the open window, landed in a crouching attitude on the bare boards, and, extending a lean arm, thrust her body into a corner.

The bronze jar toppled awkwardly and rolled to the floor, where the Siamese kitten fell upon it in a frenzy of delight. Hewitt wrenched open the drawer in which his automatic lay, and Monica, her eyes wide open with terror, leant helplessly against the wall, gazing into the scared swart face of a Chinaman. The intruder's grocer coat was torn and weather-stained, his feet were encased in sandals of plaited straw, and his features wore an expression that she did not altogether understand.

"Put them up," said the Commissioner coldly, and the celestial, complying readily, bestowed on the astonished Hewitt a broad, boyish grin.

THE BRONZE JAR LAY OPEN.

"Don't keep me like this for long," came the familiar, measured drawl of Chinese Pennington. "I've got Lien-Yin trusted like a chicken outside, and I'm as hungry as a hunter."

The Commissioner tossed his weapon back into the drawer in disgust. "Look here, old son," he complained. "What the devil do you mean by giving us shocks like this?"

The scarecrow produced a rubber pouch and began rolling himself a cigarette.

"I'm sorry if I hurt you, Mrs. Viney, only I didn't like to see you fiddling about with that jar."

"I wanted to see what was inside."

She had recovered from the surprise his sudden entry had given her. Her cheeks were flushed, and the folds of her kimono at her bosom rose and fell in time with her quick breathing.

Pennington ran his lower lip along the gilded edge of the paper and looked across at the Commissioner.

"What did you suppose was inside?"

He flung out the words like a challenge.

"The ashes of our deeply-lamented friend—Chai-Hung."

The younger man surveyed him playfully.

"The ashes of fiddle-sticks! Chai-Hung—of all men—coming out on a new line—and arranging to be cremated! Doesn't sound very probable, does it? And yet I suppose even I might have been deceived by the delightfully plausible story—if they hadn't chosen me to be one of the hearers!"

"Good Lord!"

Hewitt passed a clamping hand over his forehead.

Suddenly Monica uttered a little scream and pointed wildly to the floor. The Siamese kitten that had been playing with the bronze jar was lying on its back, kicking spasmodically. The movements ceased abruptly and before the Commissioner could reach it, the wretched creature was dead. More amazing still, the bronze jar lay open, its gaping mouth, dark and hollow like a tunnel, displaying no sign of the remains Hewitt had expected to see.

"Poisoned," said the Commissioner hoarsely. "Poor little devil!"

"It was playing with the gold stud," declared the girl sorrowfully. "Mr. Pennington, you don't think?"

"I do! I knew before I came in. I've been hanging around here all evening, trying to give Lien-Yin the slip and prevent you both making fools of yourselves."

He turned the jar with his foot and all three recoiled in horror.

There fluttered out on to the floor a strip of pasteboard. By a freak of chance, it fell face-upmost, showing seven black dots on a vivid red ground—the dread sign of the Yellow Seven!

The Commissioner was the first to move.

"Look here, Pennington," he shouted. "where's this fellow Lien-Yin?"

The other nodded toward the door. "Your man's got him—out there. Do you want to see him?"

"I want to make certain he doesn't get away."

He fumbled with something in the drawer again and made for the veranda.

Monica looked up at Pennington, and there were tears in her eyes.

"I'm heart-broken about Peter," she said softly. "But I'm awfully grateful to you for what you did."

"Aren't you looking rather far ahead?" said Monica demurely. "You forget—he hasn't asked me yet."

The Commissioner tapped the bronze jar with his finger nail. "No, but he will as soon as I show him that. He was only waiting for proof that our enemy was dead."

She came slowly back towards the urn.

"Proof," she echoed in a voice so low that it was scarcely audible. "I wonder if this clumsy thing proves anything. For all we know—it may be empty."

"Which case," smiled her brother, "there's nothing on earth to prevent us going to bed!"

"Put them up," said the Commissioner coldly, and the celestial, complying readily, bestowed on the astonished Hewitt a broad, boyish grin.

He placed the jar carefully on a corner of the desk.

"I'm sorry, Jack," she said wearily. "I didn't want to disturb you, but the sheer loneliness of the place is getting on my nerves. I just had to come in." She slipped into the chair he had pushed forward, and the kitten, feeling itself with an effort, began chasing a giant cockroach across the floor.

"You've got a touch of fever," suggested Hewitt sympathetically. "Better take a stiff dose of quinine—and turn in."

"My dear Mrs. Viney," protested Pennington, screwing up his eyes. "For the love of heaven, call her 'Monica!' hawled the Commissioner over his shoulder. He went out, slamming the door after him.

"THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT"

"The house That Jack Built" is the name neighbors have given to a handsome mission bungalow in the exclusive residential section in Los Angeles. It is the house where Champion Jack Dempsey has maintained his mother, Mrs. Cella Dempsey, in elegance and style during the last two years.

Now that Dempsey has returned from Shelby, he is making it his home too, and has settled down there to the drab routine of denying rumors of possible matrimonial engagements and automobile accidents.

Mrs. Dempsey proudly shows visitors through her home—a shrine erected on the foundation of Jack's mighty rights and lefts. The Dempseys think that a home should reflect one's own personal tastes and hope that theirs does.

While the boys were playing, the Haffner lad was struck from the rear with a hard mis-

Playmates of the boy carried him to his home, where he was attended by Dr. Ira Martin.

The identity of the person who threw the missile, which wounded Maynard was not learned, the boys with whom he was playing denying any knowledge of the source from which it came.

GIRLS FIND EASY WAY TO WAVE HAIR

Use New Liquid Which Gives Straight Hair a Beautiful Day Curl

Many Portsmouth girls now know that to have beautiful wavy hair is one of the easiest things in the world. All they need to do is apply to their hair a few drops of a wonderful new liquid—a liquid which makes even the stubbornest hair fall in soft, silky curls and charmingly natural waves.

Best of all—just one application of this new liquid will give the hair a beautiful, permanent wave effect, keeping it wavy and in curl from 7 to 10 days—often longer. This new liquid is called Domino Curlette, and those who have used it say that it is simply wonderful. Use the good old fashioned kid curlers, but before doing so, just moisten the hair with a few drops of Domino Curlette. Edward submitted to the operation yesterday morning and Hayden yesterday afternoon.

The disease with which the two boys are afflicted is not contagious, it was stated at the hospital. The fact that both should have the trouble at the same time is unusual and will probably be entered in "The Journal" of the American Medical Association.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—In order to settle an argument please tell me whether a fellow is supposed to walk on the outside or in the middle when he has two girls.

To avoid a hair-pulling, I suppose he would have to walk in the middle. However, if there is no danger of a fight, he should walk on the outside of the sidewalk.

Dear Miss Wise—Please tell me why the girls in — store are so homey? Dolly, I went to look at articles there and they were so homey I just stood and looked at them. Answer soon. I want your advice as I am leaving town.

Don't let the homey girls in that particular store run you out of town. Just visit the other stores and gaze upon some of the good looking clerks. I'm sure they will make you dizzy. I don't think the girls you mentioned are so terribly homey, but I'll admit they do dress rather freakish for business girls.

Dear Dolly—I am a girl of 13 and I would like to have a job caring for a baby from 8:30 in the morning until five o'clock in the evening. If you know of anyone who wants a girl like that, please tell them about me. A LITTLE WORKER.

Sure, I'll tell all about you.

Dear Dolly—I am 16 years of age and in love with a boy of 22. He has dark skin and brown eyes. Dolly, I think he likes me but he never gets a bit jealous of me, and he doesn't seem to care whether I go with any other boys or not. Dolly, my parents seem to be against this young man. They want to pick my husband for me. Dolly, do you think that parents have a right to do this. I don't think they should do that.

WORRIED GIRL.

The man you are crazy about does not take you seriously, and perhaps it has never entered his head that you like him. He probably looks upon you the same as he would any other child. You know most everyone likes babies—if they don't, there is something wrong with them. I don't think parents should choose husbands for their daughters, but I think they should see that their daughters associate with the right kind of people, and also see that they choose the right kind of a man for a husband. I think your parents are making a mistake by letting you run around with boys. Girls don't get married now until they are twenty-one and if they start out at fifteen and sixteen they will be old and run out of friends when they should be just starting out.

Dear Dolly—Sunday a week ago I went to Cincinnati on the excursion train, and as I was sitting in a seat by myself two nice looking young men were lucky enough to get to sit beside me, so you see we were all three lucky. I'm not from Portsmouth, as I got on down the line, but these young men talked like they lived in or near Portsmouth, and I was wondering if you could tell me who they were. I think they work at the steel plant. I know the one who sat beside the brown-eyed boy had a half girl will remember her. She wore a blue taffeta dress, if he happens to know what kind of a dress that is. Dolly I would like for him to write to me if he isn't married. I can send it to you or direct to me as I am giving you my address.

BOBBIE.

I suppose I could make a fortune if I were able to tell the name and family history of every person in existence. But I'm sorry to say that I am not gifted with any special power to do these things, hence I can not tell you the names of these young men. If you had taken a kodak picture of them or had gotten their names and addresses I could probably furnish you with a history of their family skelton.

TIMES READER.

Dear Dolly—I have two volumes of Modern Geography that were published in 1922, and I was wondering if they would be of interest to anyone. I have no use for them and would like to dispose of them to any one who would like to know what kind of geography they studied in those days. I also have six volumes of Standard History that might be of interest to some of the readers of The Times. Any further information may be had by calling 763-Y.

Jack Daw's Adventures Under the Sea

BY ELTON

Jack then grabbed the boat and it took him, rapidly through the water. "Don't hold on too long," warned the waterite, "or you will be pulled out of the water." "I think it is time that I go back to land, anyway," replied Jack. So he hung on tight to the boat.

Up he went until he could almost see the fisherman who was pulling him toward a rowboat. Then the fisherman broke and Jack once more slipped down to the bottom of the sea. This time he landed right beside the diver's suit he had stepped out of when he met the waterite.

Flip had caught up with Jack and was standing by his master's side. "How would you like to go back to the land again?" asked Jack of his pet dog. Flip barked and wagged his tale. "All right," said Jack, and he started putting on the diver's suit as Flip looked on. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
6 Olive Roberts Barton

AT MRS. THINGUMADADGER'S HOUSE

And there stood a large cake with white icing and a lump in the middle!

THE first person I wish you would look for," said King Snookums to the Twins, "is my lord high chancellor. His name is Colgus, Lord High Chancellor Cudger. Like the rest of my silly subjects, he got the craze for riding lightning bugs. And now he's plumb disappeared. We can't find him anywhere in Pee Wee Land. And I need him badly as I have to make a new law and need him to write it out for me."

"Oh, we'll find him, never fear," comforted Snaggs. "Can you tell us anything about him that might help?" King Snookums pushed his crown from one side to the other and pushed it back again.

"Nothing much!" he said. "All that I know is that he had a sweet tooth in his head. No. Two sweet teeth, or perhaps three. I greatly fear it has been his undoing."

"All right," said Nick. "We'll find him."

And there stood a large cake with white icing and a lump in the middle. "Help! Help!" the lump was calling and moving over so little. "The icing has got hard and I can't get out Help!"

Sure enough, it was the lord high chancellor of Pee Wee Land. The Twins got him out of that and hustled him home in a jiffy. (To Be Continued)

Road Fund Distribution Cancelled

COLUMBUS.—Distribution of federal aid road funds among the counties by former Highway Director Herrick before retiring from office, cancelled by his successor, L. A. Boulger, who has been petitioned by representatives of many counties for a more equitable distribution.

Forsthy was alone in the bank at this time. He was found a few moments later by the negro janitor lying half in and half out of the open vault.

When he was able to talk, Forsthy said that he had come to the bank early to get through with a press of work and had opened the vault admittance by ringing the bell and asking for a statement of the account of a customer. He invited the stranger in and did not observe that two others followed the first man inside. He was ordered to throw up his hands, and, facing a pistol, backed across the lobby to the open door to the vault. There the robbers seized the pockets of bills. Frightened by the sound of the elevator which the janitor started at that moment, one of the bandits struck Forsthy on the head with the butt of the revolver.

CHOICE

Sale starts tomorrow morning at eight o'clock. Three large tables have been arranged for the display and choice of these timely values. They are hats that have been left over from the heavy selling of our previous sale. There are large garden hats of fancy weaved straws with yarn embroidery, tailored hats, shapes, etc.; also a few children's hats are included. Speaking of outing or vacation trips, one of these large size garden hats will be just the thing. And to say nothing of the large selection of tailored hats in ribbon and flower trimmed combinations. We do not care to mention the former prices of these exceptional values for it would be doubted by many that such values could be sold for such a low figure. Girl Hurt When Auto Turns Over

Two young men, Oville Rogers and Calvin Sparks, who board and room at Eighth Street and Misses Grace and Vera Reed of Birch street, had started from serious injury, and Rogers' machine, a Star touring car, was damaged in an accident on Gallia pike near Wheelersburg Tuesday evening.

The scene of the accident was the dangerous curve west of the village. Rogers was driving and when he attempted to make the turn last evening his machine turned over. Miss Grace Reed was the most seriously injured. She sustained a cut on her left cheek and a cut on her left arm.

The machine was badly damaged. A fender being torn off, windshield broken top partly torn away, radiator smashed, and three tires blowing out.

The injured girl was attended by Dr. K. D. Reichelderfer of Wheelersburg.

Expect Big Crowd At Piketon Fair Tomorrow

Today marked the real opening of the 1923 Pike County Fair at Piketon which comes to a close on Friday. The first day of the fair was Tuesday when the admission was free and many exhibitors were still busy arranging their displays and decorations.

While the crowd early today did not smash any attendance records it was bigger than usual for the second day of the fair. Heretofore the Piketon Fair has been held only three days but this year a day was added. Plans are being made to take care of a banner crowd tomorrow. Many are expected.

Portsmouth on account of the Thursday half holiday. With good weather favoring the fair post attendance records should be broken.

The first races were this afternoon. There will be race cards Thursday and Friday with the main events tomorrow afternoon. Persons who paid a visit to the grounds yesterday report the form displays more extensive than in previous years.

Sale Of Ruel Farm Called Off And Controversy Has Developed

At the close of the big auction sale on the Henry Ruel farm, on the West Side, Tuesday afternoon, when 45 tracts of land, consisting of several acres each, had been disposed of and the total bids amounted to only $38,700.21, Henry Ruel, owner of the place, known as Haven Rock Farm, called off the sale and declared that all bids and sales were off.

Mr. Ruel stated today that the auctioneers, Horner Bros., the famous twin auctioneers of Ashville, N. C. had made a contract with him whereby they would get him $75,000 for the farm and Mr. Ruel says that when the total sales did not amount to that he decided to call off the deal.

Mr. Ruel said today that the farm is still his and that he could not see the land go for a little over $38,000, when he paid a good price for the tract himself.

J. H. Horner, of the firm of Horner Bros. issued the following statement last night:

"After all of the tracts and lots had been sold I was preparing to sign the deed to the farm to the Ford machine, when Mr. Ruel told me the sales were confirmed, and I so announced to the crowd. Later, while I was still talking, Mr. Ruel called off the sale and said, 'the sale is off.' I advised the buyers that, so far as I was concerned, the sale was in good faith, and that I had Mr. Ruel's confirmation of the deal."

Land was sold to the following people: Jacob and Wm. Teagor, Mrs. Floyd D. Mann, T. J. Cox, Mrs. Henry J. Sander, John Schaffner, A. O. Campbell, W. R. Graham, Herman Minner, G. B. Hunt, E. F. Brand, Ed Cunningham, Anstis Taylor, C. D. Bradshaw, Mrs. John Voght, William B. Evans, Daulton Bros., J. E. Hannah, C. M. Hannah, E. S. Farver, Henry Goldstein, W. V. Combs and J. A. Wheeler.

According to Mr. Ruel, no cash changed hands, and the owner positively states that all sales are off. A number of purchasers had conferred with the auctioneers at the Washington Hotel last night.

The auctioneering party went to Bluefield, W. Va. last night, where they have a big sale at ten o'clock this morning.

"My advice to buyers," Mr. Horner said last night after talking a number of the successful bidders at the sale, "would be to contend for their rights, for my understanding was that the sale was confirmed, and I so made the announcement."

Alleged Bootlegger Nabbed At Chillicothe On Return From "Good Time" At Portsmouth

CHILLICOTHE, O., August 1.—Chief Fox added eight bottles of nicely packed and labelled "Imperial" alleged bottled in bond whiskey to his private stock of contraband goods Tuesday. He is also custodian of a Chevrolet sedan and "keeper of the body" of a man giving the name of James Finley Irvine, middle-aged, 33 Woodward avenue, Edmore, Michigan. Edmore has been the center of rum-running activities on the Detroit river and a recent raid there, as noted in the papers, netted a fleet of tugs and boats used in the traffic.

Acting upon a friendly tip, Officer "Jesse" McKee took charge of the Chevrolet sedan, Tuesday morning about 4 o'clock. The car had been left in a garage in the alley near the Warner House. It was loaded with innocent looking cartons which, when opened, disclosed the exorbitant packed quarts of old "Imperial."

Investigation concerning the whereabouts of the owner brought the information that he had taken a local taxi for Portsmouth where he had gone "for a good time."

Chief Fox posted Officer Donahue on South Point street to be on the lookout for the taxi when it returned. At 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, he was rewarded. Irvine was returning from his good time at Portsmouth.

When taken to the police station and searched a loaded 32-calibre revolver was removed from his person along with bank books, letters and identification cards.

The large deposits noted in the book of the Bank of Detroit shows that Irvine, who naturally has a salesman's instinct has been doing a flourishing business—perhaps bootlegging.

Irvine, as was expected, refused to do much talking and asked for a lawyer. He wanted bond fixed in his case.

The prisoner, according to Chief Fox, was to be held on three charges, namely, the illegal transportation of liquor, the illegal possession of liquor and carrying concealed weapons.

Harding Out Of Danger

terday and as continued today, consisted of egg nog, fruit juices, milk toast and soft boiled eggs. The nourishment obtained by the president, it was said, was quite safe for one in his condition.

The decided turn for the better was indicated in every possible way last night. General Sawyer went out for a walk about 9 o'clock, the first time he had been out side the hotel since the president was brought here Sunday. Returning, he spent half an hour or so in the president's room and then retired. The head nurse also took advantage of the change in her patient's condition and obtained some sleep. Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, assistant to Dr. Sawyer, alone remained in the president's room or within call throughout the night. Mrs. Harding having retired about midnight.

General Sawyer, after his last visit to the president's room and before going to bed, issued a brief statement as to Mr. Harding's condition. This noted a pulse of 110, temperature 100.2 and respiration 44, and ended by saying that he was "resting comfortably."

Offered Recuperating Place

The betterment of the president's condition, however, did not lead to any serious discussion of the future program of the party. Whatever may be recommended, Mr. Harding will have final decision and there is no intention of placing any such matters as that before him until he gets back his strength. William Wicker, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, invited to the president and Mrs. Harding to spend the days of the former's convalescence at Catalina, where he has a large estate.

Neither was the change for the better immediately noticeable in diminution of the number of telegrams received. All through the early hours of the evening messenger boys continued to make frequent trips with telegrams and the stream got under way early this morning. Nighttime valiant efforts were being made to write and have signed acknowledgments of the wishes tendered and solicitude shown. Among these was a response to a telegram sent by former President Wilson. None of the messages was made public.

Notice To Museum Visitors

Due to the unusual number of visitors at the Museum at McDermott this season, it has been necessary to limit the visiting to two days of the week. These days specified are Thursday, from 1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. and Sunday from 10:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

ARE WOMEN OVERWORKED
Yes, hundreds of thousands of them are. This applies to the housewife and mother who struggles on a small income to make both ends meet by doing all the washing, ironing, cooking, making and mending for a large family. There are others who not only support themselves working in factories, shops, stores and offices, but often have an invalid father or mother to support; therefore do housework besides. These are the women who break down early and are afflicted with various forms of female weakness. Ninety-eight out of every 100 women who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have proved that it is a successful remedy for all women's ills. For nearly fifty years it has been restoring women to health, and it will pay every ailing woman to try it.—Advertisement.

AUCTION SALE OF PURE BRED STOCK
ANOTHER FEATURE OF COUNTY FAIR

As a fitting climax to the livestock show at the Scioto County Fair, August 8 to 11th, will come the auction sale of pure bred cattle, horses, hogs and sheep.

According to M. J. Caldwell, who has charge of the sale, some of the very best cattle will go through the sale ring to be appraised by farmers and stockmen. Everything offered in the sale will go to the highest bidder.

The sale of the well known herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle of Henry B. Ruel will be one of the big attractions. This noted herd is to be sold at auction. It has caused more than unusual comment among breeders of best cattle throughout southern Ohio.

The selling of Raven Rock farm, says Henry B. Ruel, will cause one to dispose of my herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle. These are cattle of the very best blood lines, black-horns, black-caps, prides and cream of mothers breeding families, so eagerly sought by breeders and farmers all over the country. There will be sold bulls, cows, sons with calves at side, big, black, fatbacked beauties will go at a foundation stock to wide distribution.

Some of the very best of the better breeding from the show herd of E. C. Moulton will be the offering at this sale. While M. J. Caldwell, the feeder and breeder of the big black babies will place before the farmers of the county some of his very best. Moulton Brothers will offer choice heifers and young bulls from their Jersey herd, mostly of Golden Fawn breeding a family "bred in the pink" and have many champions in the state show for putter fat production.

Short horns, Herfords will be in the offering at the sale. Hogs will sell Saturday.

DONAHUE SENDS CONDOLENCE
COLUMBUS, Aug. 1.—Governor Donahue yesterday through his Secretary J. A. Mackstroth, forwarded the following telegram to George B. Christian, Jr., the President's Secretary: "By direction of Governor Donahue I wish to express on behalf of Ohio's official family and all the people of the state our grief over the illness of the President. Ohio is hoping anxiously for news of his speedy and complete recovery."

Harding Urged To Call Special Session Of Congress

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Aug. 1.—President Harding was urged to call an extra session of Congress without delay to deal with agricultural problems affecting the nation, at a conference of four Northwestern Senators here yesterday.

The session was attended by Senators Smith, W. Brookhart, of Iowa; Lynn J. Frazier, of North Dakota, and Senators-elect Magnus Johnson and Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota.

After several conferences, the Senators agreed that an extra session should be called at once, but decided to put forward no plan for fixing the price of wheat or taking up the surplus.

The telegram, signed by each of the Senators, was sent to the President at San Francisco, in care of Brigadier General Sawyer, the President's personal physician, with the request that it be delivered when the President's health permits.

It set forth that the condition of agriculture threatens national calamity and that only an extraordinary session of Congress can avert the calamity.

All With LaFollette
All four of the Senators and Senators-elect have announced they would join the LaFollette faction in Congress. Senator LaFollette, however, has stated his opposition to an extra session of Congress at this time. No agreement was reached on plans for stabilizing the wheat price. Senators Brookhart and Frazier are in accord on Brookhart's plan to fix the entire crop; raise the tariff in order that no wheat may be purchased from outside, sell what the domestic markets will consume and have the Government take over the balance at the fixed price.

"Put up the tariff so they can't buy outside and they will have to take the wheat at the fixed price," Senator Brookhart said.

Doubts Official Report
Senator-elect Shipstead declared that he has reliable information that the report of the Secretary of Agriculture that there are 200,000,000 bushels of wheat surplus is erroneous.

"I have information from a reliable source that there is very little surplus," he said. "I have investigated this information and I am willing to accept it rather than the Department of Agriculture report."

"If it is true," Brookhart interrupted, "that the Secretary of Agriculture's report on the report is not true, then he is the worst scoundrel in the country."

The Brookhart Plan
It was said that Senator Brookhart's plan is based on estimates that the domestic consumption will reach 650,000,000 bushels of a short crop of approximately 750,000,000 bushels, leaving 100,000,000 bushels for the Government to take up and dispose of after the domestic market has been supplied.

Senator-elect Shipstead, while declaring his willingness to take any action deemed advisable to bring immediate aid to the farmers, suggested a future price-fixing which, he argued, would establish a price against which the buyers of wheat would have to bid.

"For example, if the price is fixed as of date of July 1, 1924 the buyers previous to that time will have to bid against that price and the farmer can hold his wheat until the bidders offer high prices to warrant the farmer's selling," he said.

He declared that the future price should be "a fair price based on cost of production."

Storm Ravages Delaware County

DELAWARE, OHIO, July 31.—A terrific storm here yesterday unroofed a number of barns, upset silos and flattened many acres of corn. The section of this country struck by the storm did its greatest damage by wind, took a strip of country about six miles north of Delaware and struck again about 42 miles north of here, where it ripped out a large section of high-tension wires carrying heavy current into Delaware and put out traction for several hours.

Woman Falls; Leg Broken

A fall in the kitchen of her home yesterday afternoon resulted in a broken right leg in two places above the ankle to Mrs. Roscoe B. O'Brien, aged 60, well known resident of 1227 McConnell avenue.

Dr. Ira Martin reduced the fracture after the X-ray taken by Virgil Fowler showed the leg to be broken.

Mrs. O'Brien has been suffering with rheumatism for some time and it is thought that this malady caused the fall yesterday.

Coal Tax And Racing Issues In Democratic Primary Saturday

FRANKFORT, KY., August 1.—With racing and the question of a coal tax the leading issues, political interest in Kentucky centered yesterday upon the approach of the Democratic primary Saturday, August 4, when a ticket, to take the field against the Republican nominees selected in that party's convention June 26, is to be elected.

Despite efforts to keep the racing question in the background, it has gained in prominence and the closing days of the campaign finds it one of the leading issues. The two candidates for the nomination for Governor have stated their views without opportunity for misunderstanding and the issues in the race are clearly defined. Congressman J. Campbell Cantrell, representative from the Seventh District, has taken a stand against repeal of the state law legalizing use of pari-mutuel betting machines at race tracks. Congressman Alben W. Barkley, representative from the First District favors repeal of the law.

Coal Tax An Issue
Each candidate has offered an answer to the coal tax question with claims that it would aid the farmer through a reduction of taxes. A strong bid for the farmers' support has been made by each contestant, Mr. Cantrell as a "dirt farmer," and Barkley pointing to his record for farm legislation while in Congress. Mr. Cantrell has promised farmers a tax relief through an adequate taxation of coal by means of proper assessment of coal lands by a competent tax commission.

Mr. Barkley has reiterated in his campaign speeches that a percentage tax on coal at the mouth of the mine is the only method which will afford the farmer relief and make sure that outside capital is doing its just share to the state.

Little interest has been shown in the contests for the minor offices.

The Republican Ticket
The Republicans have already put their ticket in the field by nominations made in the recent state convention held at Lexington. The Republican ticket is headed by former Attorney-General Charles Dawson. The latter in his campaign, took the position that the Legislature, and not the Governor, would have the settlement of the question of the abolition or continuation of the pari-mutuel system of betting on races and that it was not properly an issue in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination. The Dawson faction being overwhelmingly in control of the convention adopted a platform which was silent on the subject of race-track gambling.

Carey JUMBO SHINGLES

The Shingle that Never Curls

THE large size of these shingles gives a massive slab effect. Their extra thickness creates deeper shadows between the joints and at the butt, giving that pleasing contrast of light and dark so desirable in large roof surfaces.

Jumbo Shingles are furnished with red, green, or blue-black crushed slate surfaces. They are spark-proof, enduring, fadeless, and will never curl.

Students Rescued At Mountain Top; Had Lost Their Way

LEWISTON, MAINE, August 1.—Alfred Merwin, Jr., of New York, and his chum, Gaston Dallenbach, of Switzerland, who lost their way on Mt. Katahdin last Wednesday, were found huddled together near the Monument of Stones at the highest peak of the mountain yesterday by guides Eugene York and Abel Cook. The boys seemed mentally alert and their physical condition was good, considering that their food of six days had consisted chiefly of wild berries.

After the guides had given them food and coffee the party started down the mountainside for a hike of 10 miles to a camp, where they were to remain overnight.

Better Tone In Bond Trading

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—An improvement in the tone of the early trading in bonds today. Prices were generally higher, but movements were irregular. Chief interest was centered in the offering of $200,000,000 three percent notes of the Swiss government at prices to yield six percent. J. P. Morgan and company heading the offering syndicate announced at noon the sale was "fairly good." The listed Swiss bonds eased fractionally in the early transactions. A number of French and South American bonds moved up fractionally and Prague 7 1/2's gained a point. Railroad mortgages were about evenly divided between gains and losses. St. Paul four or 102's were up one and the refunding 4 1/2's, 1 3/4 while the convertible 4's lost a point. New Haven convertible sixes and Erie convertible 4's were "D" each yielding a point. A loss of two by Maryland 6's was the only outstanding change among the industrial leaders. United States government bonds were steady.

Shot By Policeman

COLUMBUS, O., August 1.—Arnold Haezelacker, 19, was shot and probably fatally wounded here early today when he refused to stop at the command of Patrolman Harry Webster. Haezelacker, with Harry Dobbin, were seen to run out of an alley by the policeman. The policeman ordered them to stop and Dobbin obeyed, he said, and he opened fire when his companion continued to run. One of the officers then pushed through Haezelacker's body.

Flood Of Buying Orders Hits Market

ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Stock prices made brisk recovery from recent heaviness, in today's quiet session. Overnight improvement in the president's condition and publication of several favorable earnings reports had a favorable effect on sentiment. Sales approximated 700,000 shares. The closing was firm.

OPENING.—Marked improvement in President Harding's condition was partly responsible for the flood of buying orders which poured into the stock market, and gave opening prices a strong tone. Initial gains of 1 to nearly 2 1/2 points were recorded by U. S. Steel, Crucible, Baldwin, American Can, Studebaker and Pan American. Heavy short covering operations were apparent for the start.

Prices reacted slightly when the overnight accumulation of buying orders had been absorbed but net gains of 1 to 2 points were quite common at the end of the first half hour. Buying power concentrated chiefly in the rails, oils, steels, motors, motor accessories and equipments. Union Pacific, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Alchison, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific preferred each gained a point. U. S. Rubber dropped nearly two points to a new low for the year. Foreign exchanges opened irregular. A NOON.—The market stiffened again before noon, many active shares selling one to three points above yesterday's final prices. The unusually favorable earnings report made public yesterday by United States Steel, Studebaker and American Locomotive attracted good buying power into these shares. The short interest in many stocks apparently had become unwieldy with covering operations resulting in some spiraling gains. Gulf States Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker, Mack Truck and Alchison Carburator rallied two to three points during the morning. Reports of impending cuts in tire prices resulted in heaviness in some of the rubber issues. Call money opened at six per cent, its renewal rate being equalled on only four previous occasions this year.

Newman, at one time editor of The Times, passed away at her home, 921 Second street at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Newman had been ill for the past two months. Her condition had been serious of late and death did not come unexpectedly to her loved ones and close friends, who were in constant touch with her condition.

Mrs. Newman had made her home at 921 Second street since 1870. Mr. Newman, who took a prominent part in political affairs in this section, was one of the best known of public spirited citizens the city has ever known. He served his county in both branches of the legislature and was elected secretary of state in 1882.

For many years Mrs. Newman was a faithful member of All Saints Episcopal church, and always took an active part in its affairs. She leaves a number of friends, who will learn with genuine sorrow of her passing to the land of Eternal Rest.

She was a member of Bigelow church for a long time.
Funeral services will be held from the home Thursday at 2 p. m. and in the absence of Rev. C. E. Chandler from the city, Rev. John Collins Jackson will conduct the last rites. Burial in Greenlawn.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF GUN PLAY AFTER FIGHT

The vicinity of Fifteenth and Waller streets was the scene of some wild disorder today at noon when trouble between John Q. Arthur, former well known grocer, and a colored girl named Pauline Saunders, of 1516 Fifteenth street, resulted in a squad of police being sent to the scene and then followed a clash between the officers and Arthur and several members of his family during which Mrs. Arthur is claimed to have made a gun play and snatched a loaded revolver at Officer Harry Amick.

On being advised of the trouble between Arthur and the girl, Officer Amick, Sheriff and Hawkins responded and on being told that Arthur had assaulted and beat the colored girl attempted to place him under arrest. The latter resisted and demanded a warrant and when the officer insisted on Arthur's accompanying him to the police station, a lively scuffle ensued between the pair. Amick finally subdued him and just as Mrs. Arthur pointed a gun out the door at him and threatened to fire, it is claimed, Amick tried to reach her but she closed the door and prevented his entrance and in the meantime Arthur had got inside the house and refused to surrender. Amick and Amick, it was claimed, Mrs. Arthur and her two sons, Theodore and Tom, and daughter Hazel interfered with the officers, and prevented Patrolmen Hawkins and Shaffer from going to the aid of their fellow officer.

After the Arthur family had barricaded themselves in their home at 1428 Waller street they telephoned the sheriff's office and offered to surrender and Patrolman Eliza Cantor and Robert Item, went to the scene. In the meantime Acting Chief Stutzman and Patrolmen Powers and Braubum were summoned and on the advice of the deputy sheriffs, who refused to interfere, Arthur submitted to arrest and he was brought to police headquarters along with his son, Theodore, 18. The Saunders girl swore to affidavits charging them with assault and battery. They were later released on bond for their appearance in Municipal court Thursday when Mrs. Arthur and her daughter Hazel, and son Tom, will also likely be required to appear at the same time to meet charges.

The trouble is said to have been precipitated by the Saunders girl making a remark about the sidewalk in front of the Arthur home as she was passing along the street. The girl told the officers that the assault upon her was unprovoked and wholly unwarranted.

Firopo Suspicious, Wants To Fight In S. A.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 1 (United Press).—Some doubts about what the results of another "mixed bout" would be have been cleared by the heavy-weight championship bout for two years. Considering all political bodies, it would seem that the result would be a draw. The boxing commission, however, has carefully refrained from giving the slightest indication of its attitude on mixed bouts for the heavy-weight championship.

Up until recently, the perplexing "color angle" has been confined to the black and white races, but a new color has been injected now with the complaint of some Spanish language papers in New York that Luis Angel Firpo, the South American giant, is being discriminated against on account of his color.

Evidence to prove this point was taken from the recent Firpo-Willard fight in the fifth round of which the crowd in the Rickard arena arose to its feet and shouted in real college style—Come on, Jess, come on!

As his fellow countrymen construed this to be an act of hostility against the big Latin, so also did they interpret it as being an indication that the mightiest of all squares deal in a fight with Jack Dempsey in this country.

For this reason, Firpo insisted that the match be staged in Buenos Aires, when Richard and Jack Kearns were trying to make the match with him.

Firpo is too willing to be suspicious. His ad is not always of the best and his doubts about the sportsmanship of fans in this country are absolutely without foundation.

Some wise old follower of fistiana would have told him that crowds practice always lean toward the "under dog" and it could have explained that the shouts for Willard to "Come on!" were inspired more by a loser making a rally than by a spirit of animosity toward a "brown man."

In insisting that the bout be staged in South America, Firpo was losing sight of the fact that the champion would be in much more unfavorable surrounding there than Firpo would be in this country.

The South American champion apparently is under the impression that Dempsey is a great national hero and the crowd would call out troops if Firpo started to win from him.

It would have done Firpo some good and would have given him a better understanding of the sportsmanship of fans in the United States if he had heard the ovation that Georges Carpentier drew in Jersey City and the demonstration that was staged in Shelby when Tom Gibbons was introduced from the ring.

Dempsey, largely because the public does not and has not tried to understand or know him, is perhaps the most unpopular heavy-weight champion that has ever held the title and if Firpo and Dempsey should meet it is likely that Firpo would get the better hand and that in a pinch, the crowd would be up yelling—"Come on, Firpo, come on!"

WHY AND WHEREFORE

NOT understanding our own views may not be erroneous, all the more do we seek enlightenment on the subjects of class legislation.

We find a large portion of the metropolitan press, more particularly that portion devoted chiefly to finance, deeply concerned over the rise in power, in congress, of the farm bloc, mainly Republicans, who are refusing to follow the party lead.

For instance here is the New York Journal of Commerce so disturbed that it accuses those same leaders to recite every day the petition to be found in the Catholic ritual: "From all false doctrines, heresies and schisms, O Lord deliver us."

Of course, the ritual refers only to spiritual teachings, but the Journal of Commerce applies it to the legislation proposed by the farm bloc. It can see only false doctrine, when the farmers ask the government to buy wheat when they have to sell it at such a price as will lose them money; only heresy, when they ask the government to loan them money on their crops and nothing but schism when they threaten to bolt the Republican party if it does not grant them these things through legislation.

Economically, we grant, the government is wrong in going into private business; it is false doctrine and heresy, but we will not say bolting the Republican party is schism. Our view is, however, that one error does not make another right, nor does a series take away the fallacies of other errors.

So while it would be a grievous mistake for government to enter into the wheat guarantying business, or go into direct banking and loan business, advancing farmers upon their annual products, it is not one whit more wrong, than to warrant a sailor against loss in operating his ship, or laying a high duty for the protection of the manufacturer.

What we are asking then is for information, instruction from these founts of wisdom, as to why one sort be false doctrine, heresy and schism, while the other is true faith and righteous practice.

WISHES SPEEDY RECOVERY

THE country was profoundly dismayed by the revelation that President Harding was a very sick man.

It could scarce have been that he was as critically ill as the bulletins indicated, because considering the importance of the patient, the physicians would have been more than human, had they not lent more of gravity to the case than such an one would carry ordinarily.

Anywise, there is intense relief in the knowledge that the executive is well set for quick recovery of his normal robustness.

There is no denying that his death, at such a time as this, would not have fallen far short of a serious calamity. Public and political affairs are in a distressfully chaotic condition, which would have been radically intensified by loss of the nation and party head.

A SHINING EXAMPLE

PRESIDENT HARDING was at his happiest when he spoke to our friends and neighbors at Vancouver. The President's amiable temperament and excessive desire to be pleasant lent him admirably to such a situation.

Then he had a most inspiring subject. Canada and the United States have lived neighboring governments for a century and a half in amity towards each other. Along their far flung border—three thousand miles and more—peace has reigned in all that time. More than that, the intercourse between the two peoples has always been friendly and notable for mutual courtesy. Usually one nation is disposed to nag and ridicule marked peculiarities in the other. There has been practically nothing of that sort between the people of the United States and Canada. Among us, with unusual consideration, our friends and neighbors are always referred to as Canadians, seldom, indeed, as Canucks, with them we are ever Americans, not Yankees.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

New York=Day=By=Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, August 1.—Thousands of magazine readers will mourn the death of "Sis" and the fine homely philosophy he gave to the world. In real life he was John M. Siddall, editor of the American magazine. He was an inspiration in life as well as in death.

His last months brought home to me the unrelenting nature of our life of the spirit, that many we meet in our daily contact are living "Sis" and I had spent a number of happy hours together over the luncheon table.

He was building with enthusiasm over his job. He had a buoyancy that was contagious and there was a wild dreamy glow to his correspondence. Two days before he passed into a comatose state he sent me a letter that was rippling with red condensed animation.

Our last talk was of work to do—things to accomplish. "Sis" knew then that his days were numbered. He told only his devoted wife, who had to know on account of business matters. It was in April that "Sis" asked me for the truth.

They told him that at best he could live but six months. A dread of death could not be checked. He went straight to his wife and in perhaps the first talk a husband ever had with a beloved, he recorded her in a measure to his fate.

Then he plunged into his work with fresh fervor. He got his house in order and carried on. He began coaching others about him to carry on where he left off without their realizing he would soon be gone. His humor was more infectious than ever. He was going to die a man.

Just a day before he became unconscious, he was at the office. That night as he sat at his home, he died on Hudson with a lawyer who had brought some papers to sign, he said: "Slow dying is an awful bore."

The next morning before he passed into the sleep that ended in death, he looked out his window at the bright sunshine, the school going children and the flashing motor cars. To his doctors he said with a wistful smile: "This world was made only for the soul."

Siddall believed in people. Nothing interested him so much as daily contact with them. He would not take vacations. They kept him away from folk.

There was a bet made in a Fifth Avenue club some weeks ago by one of the members that he could dig a hole in Fifth Avenue's asphalted street without interference. He dug down, shoveling a hole and carrying a red lantern walked to a spot heavy with traffic. He worked for an hour while crowds on the sidewalk looked on. Several policemen passed without interrupting him. He won his bet.

He won his bet.

He won his bet.

The top man at the information bureau at the Grand Central Station is about 30 years old. He answers thousands of questions daily without tiring an eye. He knows more about New York than any man over 40. He was born and reared in a small town in Iowa. He shows signs.

Over on West Street there is a lodging house that is filled with the kind of sea-going humanity. The atmosphere is of foul smoke from coal pipes and a discord of rickety beds, many who sell rackets of guns and newspapers on the curb so close to mingle with the motley gathering. The other evening when excitement was in high speed—there was a sailing in the morning—a Salvation Army lass entered the place and passed her tambourine among them. Then she prayed. Every man got on his knees. Men who are down to the sea in ships were so soft at religion. They have been too close to the breathless mystery.

TEDIOUS PASTIME—WATCHING A SLIGHT-OF-HAND AMATEUR—BY BRIGGS

His Own Medicine

A client, seeking advice from a rough lawyer on how to avoid his creditors, was instructed to place all his property in his wife's name.

Later the lawyer presented his bill for services rendered and received the following reply: "Dear Sir: I took your advice and placed all of my possessions in my wife's name and now I have no money to pay for your services."

In Another Class

There was a fire in our neighborhood and mother told the twins they could not go, but could watch from our yard. Father went to see if he could help.

"Let's go, I heard Billy say," said Bobby.

"But father won't," protested Billy. "Oh yes," answered Bobby, "but father has got minders of their own."

THE BLUFFER

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM BY BERTON BRALEY

As a kid he was scared of the other boys. The snarling ones and the bigger. Yet he faced 'em all with a seeming poise.

And fought 'em with sturdy vigor: He was scared of the girls, but he made a bluff. Of courage, and stuck right to it. And got away with it will enough. So nobody ever knew it.

AND as he grew to a man's estate He was ever with fear astir. He was scared of people and scared of fate. And scared of his daily job: But somehow or other he played the game.

And steadily battled through it. He was scared and frightened, but just the same. There's nobody ever knew it.

HE bluffed his friends and he bluffed his foes. With his glorious dissembling. And nobody guessed his endless throes. Of doubt and of fear and trembling. He died with brave words on his breath. Scared blue, but he wouldn't show it.

He gallantly bluffed through life and death. A hero who didn't know it! (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

First Christian C. E. Society

To Picnic At Henry Spring

"On to Henry Springs!"

This is the cry now being raised by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Christian Church in the planning for their annual picnic which is to take place Thursday afternoon and evening at the Henry Springs grounds.

All three of the societies and their friends are asked to join in the big time. The first contingent will leave the church at 1:30, taking with them their lunch. Games, bathing then home. It'll be great.

and all sorts of good, wholesome fun will be enjoyed.

At 5 o'clock the second party will leave the church, bound for the picnic grounds. The transportation committee has provided trucks and machines in abundance, so that any member of the C. E. of the First Christian and their friends will have a way to get there and get back if they will be at the church at the hour named.

Lunch will be served at about six o'clock, and then some more fun and games, bathing then home. It'll be great.
